Queen Creek. Olive Mill

The town of Queen Creek is a growing community in the Phoenix metropolitan area primarily located in the southeast corner of Maricopa County with some overlap into Pinal County. The town is within 10 minutes of Phoenix-Mesa Gateway Airport and Arizona State University at the Polytechnic Campus and 45 minutes of Sky Harbor International Airport. Positioned as a center of influence in the southeast Phoenix valley, with a strategic location, land available for development and a young, highly educated workforce, Queen Creek offers limitless opportunities.

The town-owned Horseshoe Park & Equestrian Centre hosts a variety of equestrian events and is equipped to handle a variety of different festivals. Event facilities are available for reservation 365 days a year. Schnepf Farms is a family-owned working farm that provides entertainment, education and delicious, locally grown fruits and vegetables through a variety of seasonal festivals, concerts and events. Just across from the farm, the Queen Creek Olive Mill is Arizona's only working olive farm and mill. Daily tours and the restaurant and shop are open to the public. Scenic views include the San Tan Mountains to the south and the Superstition Mountains to the northeast. San Tan Mountain Regional Park offers open space and recreational opportunities. As development occurs and funding allows, Queen Creek is acquiring and developing two major washes crossing the community as the foundation of a parks and trail system.

Queen Creek, AZ History

Since its incorporation on Sept. 5, 1989, the Town of Queen Creek has fulfilled residents' dreams for the community. The Town has adopted several award-winning plans designed to guide future growth, planning and land use as well as provide amenities. The Town has grown from rich rural roots to what is one of the most innovatively planned family friendly home towns in Arizona.
